Additional Information

The City Manager is directed to conduct a market study of City Council office compensation, staffing, and budgeting that should include, but not be limited to: a review of pay and benefits, including options for retirement benefits in compliance with the City Charter; and a review of support services staffing and office budgeting levels for elected officials in peer cities. This market study should be conducted in advance of the FY2022-2023 budget cycle to allow for timely consideration and possible action in that budget.
